WELCOME TO AMSTERDAM GAY WAY TO EUROPE

Amsterdam is probably one of the the gayest cities in Europe, with something to offer everyone. Amsterdam offers a great diversity of gay bars, discos, shops and cafes, some of the world's best and weirdest museums, classic architecture, and many coffeshops, all within walking distance from Central Station.

With over 170 nationalities, Amsterdam is a true international city. Combine that with the unique spirit of tolerance and freedom of the Netherlands, and that's why one of our Mayors proudly called Amsterdam "gay way to Europe".

You don't have to bother trying to learn the difficult Dutch language, as most natives speak English fluently. Homosexuality is legal in the Netherlands, and gays and lesbians can get legally married. The age of consent for gay sex is 16, but for prostitutes it's 18 (and going to be 21). ➤

TOURISM AND MONEY

You may also want to check out the VVV/ Tourist Office at the floating house across from Central Station, or one if it's other locations for tourist information, tour information and local activities. For specific gay info do visit the Pink Point at the Homomonument, where friendly staff is happy to help you, or pass by GayTic at Spuistraat.

In summertime, the Reguliersdwarstraat and Zeedijk are closed down for traffic, which are great streets to hang out in the evenings.

After many years of renovation all of Amsterdam's museums have opened their doors. When visiting the Van Gogh museum, Anne Frank house or Rijksmuseum, we may suggest to buy a ticket online on their websites before going there, this will save you huge waiting lines.

A nice tip is also the Hermitage museum near City Hall. ➤

CASH AND CARD

More and more plastic is used to pay, but the Euro is the currency. Best place to exchange money is the GWK (open from 8 till 20 in Central Station). US $ are getting less and less accepted. The easiest way to get cash is from an Automatic Teller Machine (ATM).

In most bars and clubs you can also pay with PIN (Maestro). Beware of places who mention 'PIN Only', that means you cannot pay cash there (that's not a joke). You can ask if you can pay by card too. Warning: do not change any money on the streets! This is a known rip-off from east-European thieves. Visa & Eurocard/Mastercard are widely accepted.

If you have problems getting money from ATM's or on your card, contact your bank, as sometimes they have to enable getting cash from machines for the country you are in first. ➤

TRANSPORTATION & COMMUNICATION

Amsterdam is a compact city, where you can easily walk from one gay area to the other. Most natives travel by bike, and Amsterdam already has more bikes than inhabitants (around 881.000 bikes).

If you rent a bike, please be aware that also in Amsterdam there are traffic regulations too, locals do not like it if you cycle on pavements or suddenly stop in the middle of the street.

Also you cannot park your bike 'just anywhere', so check where you park it, otherwise the city may take your bike away.

Public transportation is easy to use. The system operates from approximately 6 a.m. to midnight, although there are night buses for partygoers as well. If you'll be in town for a while, then buy a pass for more days from the little GVB kiosk across from Central Station (GVB is the local public transport company). In most public transport itself you cannot pay cash, so make sure to get a public-transport card ('OV chipcard').

You can get OV Chipcards at tabacconists, supermarkets and from machines at most stations, which also take cash and card.

If you need a taxi, have your hotel call for one. In town, TCA is the reliable company (which you can see from their roof light). Their phone number 020-7777777 or get their app at tcataxi.nl. (TCA works better than Uber here). Always ask the rate to your destination before you get in.

There are no more postoffices in Holland. Instead, there are 'postoffice desks' to get stamps and your mail out in many tabacconists, major supermarkets, and stores like Ako.

SAFETY AND DRUGS

Amsterdam is a relatively safe city, but, like in every city in the world, use your common sense. The best thing to do is leave your valuables in your hotel's safe. Around Central Station and especially in the Red Light District, the chances are pretty high that a friendly man will offer you drugs. The best thing to do is ignore them completely, or just say NO.

Even if they do actually sell something, you never know what you're actually getting. If you want to buy grass, buy it in a coffee shop. The quality of the grass is extremely strong, so be careful. Every year tourists drop into the canals and it's not easy to get out of the water when you're stoned. Eating things like "hash-cake" is a bad idea. If for some reason you had too much pot or hash, drink a regular coke, it's sugar-levels will usually get you back upon your feet. Hard drugs like cocaine, XTC and GHB are not legal. Paddo's are not legal anymore either.

If you are a party boy, take care. In dance clubs you will be searched by the bouncers and they will call the police when they find hard drugs, but more important, you may ruin the license of the place resulting in the place having to close down because of you. The Red Light District is Amsterdam's best known tourist attraction where you'll find prostitutes behind the windows and junkies on the streets who are always smoking is banned from public places in Holland, which means you can no longer smoke in restaurants & bars. Many bars cater for a nice smoking area outside.

Amsterdam is well known for its active darkrooms in bars and its wild fetish, kink and sex parties. Many bars and clubs have back rooms or "darkrooms" where you can play with other interested guys. You may also want to check the latest agenda info at gayamsterdam.com where the gay venues post their agenda's and upcoming parties or ask bar staff about what's on.

Pay attention to your personal safety by staying aware of your personal belongings, letting a friend know whom you're going home with, and by practicing safer sex. Remember, don't leave your common sense on the floor with your clothes. Enjoy Amsterdam's many darkrooms, rent boys and friendly natives, but remember that your life is worth far more than a good fuck.

Enjoy yourself, play safe, and let our advertisers know we sent you! You can also pay us a visit back home, where you can also leave your comments about your Amsterdam visit, at our ever growing website
